Forecast for Saturday 12 Jun 2021

Weather: Some low cloud on the higher slopes will give misty conditions through the early hours. This will clear during the morning to give lengthening sunny spells and occasional cloudy periods. It will remain dry through the afternoon and evening with prolonged periods of strong sunshine. In the sunshine it will feel very warm, however it won't feel quite as humid as during the last few days. Into the evening and it will stay dry and mostly clear.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 70% rising to 100% by mid-morning.

Visibility: Locally very poor on the higher slopes during the overnight hours and at first on Saturday morning, with periods of cloud affecting slopes above 500-600m. This breaking and lifting above the summits by mid-morning, with very good visibilities then continuing across the area for the rest of the day.

Forecast for Sunday 13 Jun 2021

Weather: A few shallow mist patches may develop in the valleys through the early hours but these will quickly clear after dawn to leave another fine and mostly sunny day. Some patchy fair weather cloud is likely to develop at times but there will continue to be some prolonged periods of sunshine through the afternoon. It will feel warmer than on Saturday and also more humid, particularly when directly in the very strong sunshine. High or very high levels of UV and pollen. It will stay dry with sunny periods into the evening.

Maximum wind: Southerly or southwesterly 10-15 mph, locally gusting of 20-25 mph.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 90% or greater.

Visibility: Locally poor first thing in any mist but otherwise widely very good visibilities. Distant landmarks may turn rather hazy through the day as the heat builds.

Temperature: Valleys: Plus 9 Celsius rising to plus 25 Celsius.
At 600m: Plus 13 Celsius rising to plus 20 Celsius.
Freezing level: Above the summits.
